

60 Day Delinquency Disclosure

An investment in your education is one that will pay dividends for the rest of your life. The financial arrangements you have agreed to with the college has a monthly payment obligation. As with any financial obligation there are consequences for non-payment. This disclosure advises you in advance that you are expected to keep your monthly payments current. If at any time during the course of the program your payments are more than sixty (60) days delinquent at the beginning of the next term/phase, you will not be permitted to attend that phase.

By explaining this clearly in advance it is our goal to avoid any unpleasant circumstances regarding tuition payments. Your signature below indicates the college policy has been explained and you fully understand the implications of falling behind on month payments.
